UNARMED MAN IS SHOT TO DEATH

L. C. Cook shot and fatally wounded a young man named Max Kreiger near Willits Friday evening. Kreiger was brought to the county hospital at this place where his wounds were attended to. He died Sunday night at 9 o'clock.

According to Kreiger's statement, in company with two other young men he went to Cook's place after some wine, taking a jug to carry home the beverage. It appears that Cook's daughter waited upon the customers and after the jug was filled the young men spent some time talking with the girl. During the conversation the girl lamented the fact that it was time for her to build a fire in the stove, presumable for the purpose of preparing the evening meal. Kreiger at once volunteered to build the fire for her, according to his story, and he cut kindling and started the fire. He then says he suggested that as he had started the fire for her she should treat them, he and his companions, to a drink of wine. This she declined to do. The young men insisted, jokingly more than seriously, Kreiger claimed, and during this the girl became angry and went for her father.

Cook returned with his daughter, very angry. Kreiger claims that he and his companions were somewhat nonplussed at the turn their joshing had taken, and remonstrated with Cook. Without further provocation, according to the story told by the wounded man, Cook jerked out a gun and before he could be prevented shot Kreiger.

The ball entered the body about two inches above the navel and ranged downward, lodging, it is supposed, in the pelvic region. The physician failed to find the missile when he dressed the wound.

Kreiger was a German, aged about 33 years old, and was said to be a well-behaved young fellow. His relatives are all in Germany. He and his companions were employed at cutting tan bark on D. E. Albers' ranch, and Cooks' house, where the affray occurred, was also on the Alber's place.

Cook claims that Kreiger had been in the habit of visiting his daughter, and for the girl's welfare he had warned Kreiger to keep away. When Cook found him at his house again he "called him down," and during the altercation that followed Cook claims that Kreiger made at him as though to do him great bodily harm. Under this impression Cook claims that he drew his pistol and shot Kreiger.

The Cook girl is the same one that was involved in the Ferguson rape case, tried in the superior court some months ago. Ferguson, it will be remembered, was sentenced to several years in the states prison.

Cook had his preliminary examination at Willits yesterday, and was bound over to appear in the superior court.

New Lumber Company.

The Noyo River Lumber Company has filed articles of incorporation with County Clerk McCowen. The purposes of the company, as set forth in the articles, is to carry on a general land and lumber business, and San Francisco is designated as the principal place of business of the new corporation.

The directors are H. C. Moyce, O. B. Kyle, L. H. Clar, Jas. C. Gilfillan, all of San Francisco, and L. F. Clar, of Willits. The capital stock is placed at $25,000, and of this $50 has been subscribed.

O. E. Williams was over from his Howard creek sawmill on the coast several days this week.

WM. HELD LOST ON MOUNTAIN

William Held, the well known saloon man of this city, is lost on Red mountain and the gravest fears are felt for his safety. In fact it is hardly believed that he will be found alive.

In company with Antone Obert, a mining friend from San Francisco, and Julius Roller Mr. Held left Wednesday morning for Red mountain on a prospecting trip. During the afternoon the two former left camp on a short trip after water and upon their return failed to find Mr. Held there. A short search was made for him without avail, and when a more extended look failed to disclose anything of the missing man his friends became thoroughly alarmed. They kept up the anxious search through the entire night and the greater part of Thursday forenoon without result. It was then concluded that assistance was needed, and they arrived at town about noon and gave the alarm.

Several parties at once left for the locality, and the country was gone over very thoroughly that afternoon and Thursday night. The slightest clew to Mr. Held's whereabouts was not found. This morning additional searching parties left for the vicinity and the search will be kept up.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Held was not used to being much out doors and that he was particularly succeptible to the heat, there is a feeling that Mr. Held was overcome not far from the camp. Wednesday was a particularly hot day, and a man unused to the hot sun would experience difficulty traveling in the mountains.

Red mountain is eight or ten miles from town, near the lower end of the valley, and has many prospectors' holes one of which might have proven a pitfall to the uufortunate man.

Mr. Held had long been a resident of Ukiah and had a large circle of friends. He but recently disposed of his saloon business, having leased it for a period of five years, and was preparing to take life easy for awhile.

LATER—Mr. Held arrived at the asylum today at about 9 o'clock, greatly fatigued from his wearisome tramp in the mountains. Otherwise he appears to be none the worse for his trying experience.

A Serious Charge.

Sheriff Moore, of Lake county, was in town Sunday having in charge Wm. Foutch, an old resident of Lake county, who was arrested in Eureka. Foutch is accused of cohabiting with his own daughter, and when he learned that the law was to be invoked in his case he fled to Humboldt county, where he was arrested.

Foutch is said to be a never-do-well, whose main enemy is liquor, and there are those who claim, as Foutch contends, that he is the victim of some of his neighbors, who are laying their own sins at his door. He admits that his running away lends a bad color to his case, but claims that the enormity of the repulsive accusation caused him to think only of getting up and clearing out before sober second thought was taken.

After Many Years.

Dr. George McCowen's visit to Mendocino last Saturday was made after an absence of forty-two years from that thriving town. In 1862 Mr. McCowen worked in the Big river woods, then in charge of Dan Milliken, the pioneer logger. There was no road from Ukiah to the coast, except by way of Anderson valley. Much travel between here and Mendocino was by the trail from Willits, however, and Mr. McCowen made several trips over that. He found his trip interesting, very much so, and regretted that it was not more extended.

Supreme Court Commissioner J. A. Cooper returned to San Francisco last Tuesday, after spending some time in the county on business and pleasure.

Nimrods Make a Mistake.

Ham Smith, the wellknown stock raiser of Cow mountain, is looking for a couple of amateur hunters. He desires to meet them so badly that it is possible that the officers of the law will be called upon to bring about a meeting should the young nimrods insist, with a modesty they are probably not acquainted with as a rule, upon declining to make Mr. Smith's acquaintance. It all came about by a two-year-old cow belonging to Mr. Smith looking so much like an antlered monarch of the glen that the trembling, ague stricken youths did not discover any material difference until they had filled her so full of lead that she could not get out of their way. This brought on a fit of despondency that proved fatal. Curiously enough, Mr. Smith holds the young men responsible for the bovine's death, and in his staid, matter-of-fact way wants restitution made. He is satisfied that he is on the right track, and it is safe to say that the young men, who are said to be from San Francisco but are stopping in the valley, will gladly pay for their lack of knowledge of Mendocino's fauna.

Wedding Last Sunday.

Clark Baily and Mrs. Emma Goddard, both of Ukiah, were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony last Sunday evening. They have begun house-keeping at their home in the Waggenseller addition. Many friends wish them happiness and prosperity.

GOT PINCHED ON WRONG TIP

Johnny Hoffman, Joe Snell and Garfield Hale had an interesting outing last week, and for a time it looked like trouble had gone out of its path to hunt them up. Some two miles above Walker valley ranch the boys killed a buck on the morning of the 15th. They went on to Willits and, leaving a portion at a butcher shop, proceeded to Sherwood. At Sherwood they were overtaken by an officer who had a warrant for their arrest. It is said that the warrant was issued at the request of W. W. Van Arsdale, upon information, which afterwards proved erroneous, that the deer had been killed on his ranch.

The boys were taken back to Willits where the justice of the peace, before whom they were taken, ordered them to appear next morning. In the meantime Mr. Van Arsdale set about gathering information about the case and, it is said, soon came to the conclusion that he had been misinformed. He at once withdrew his complaint, expressed his regrets at the occurence and remunerated the accused for the expense and trouble they had been put to. The trio of hunters were greatly pleased at the outcome of the affair, as may be imagined, and especially at Mr. Van Arsdale's treatment of them when he discovered the mistake. They proceeded on their way, presumably rejoicing, and Tuesday returned to Ukiah well laden with the spoils of the chase.

Board of Equalization.

The supervisors, sitting as a board of equalization, had very little business brought before it this year. But two petitions were made for reductions of assessment, one of which was granted and the other refused. Following is the proceedings of the board:

County Assessor Thomas appeared before the board and reported assessment rolls ready for use.

J. D. Ruddock, attorney for Patrick Roach, appeared before the board and made application for reduction of the assessment of his land for the year 1903. It appearing that the timber had been cut and removed from said land, and the value had been reduced thereby, on motion assessment was reduced to $4 per acre for year 1904.

Application of J. A. Cooper for redection on certain lands from $7 per acre to $4 rejected.

MENDOCINO'S NEW R. A. M. CHAPTER

Mendocino chapter, No. 88, Royal Arch Masons, was formally instituted last Saturday night by Grand Lecturer Franklin T. Day, of San Francisco, assisted by High Priest A. J. Thatcher. The occasion was an important one in Mendocino county Masonry, and the preparations for the event were made accordingly. Visitors were present from all parts of the county, there being twelve in the party from Ukiah.

After the installation of the officers of the new chapter and the formal institution of the chapter, a banquet was served in the commodious dining room of the Masonic hall. The banquet was without question a superb affair. It was evident that an effort had been made to eclipse everything in that line heretofore attempted by the Mendocino people, which was no easy matter, as Mendocino has an enviable reputation for not doing anything of that sort in a halfhearted manner. The attempt, however, was a great success, and it would have done credit to any San Francisco caterer. The members and their visitors, together with their ladies, enjoyed the repast until a late hour, the feast being followed by the usual after-dinner speeches and toasts. High Priest C. J. Wood acted as toastmaster in his usual happy manner. Altogether the entire affair was pronounced, by the Ukiah members at least, superior to anything of the kind they had ever attended in the county, and it will long be cited as a criterion for future events of that nature. Mendocino is a model town in the matter of entertaining, and the members of Mendocino chapter and their ladies certainly deserve unstinted praise for the royal manner in which they not only sustained but, if possible, eclipsed their town's reputation.

Those in the party from Ukiah were Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Westerman, T. L. Carothers, C. M. Mannon, A. J. Thatcher, Dr. George McCowen, Prof. L. W. Babcock, W. D. L. Held, M. A. Thomas and O. L. Stanley. Grand Lecturer Franklin T. Day, of San Francisco accompanied the party from this place. The Ukiah visitors have nothing but words of praise for their enttire trip, from the time they left home until they returned, and they pronounce the trip, their reception and their entertainment while at Mendocino as being perfect in every respect.

Will Improve the Street.

The board of city trustees is considering making a decided change for the better in Perkins street where it is crossed by Gibson creek, near the railroad depot. As it now is the creek, together with the bridge and sidewalk, has been a continual source of trouble and besides it is certain that as far as appearances goes that could also be improved. It is the intention to cut a channel from the corner of Mrs. McCormick's lot diagonally across the street, cutting out the old bridge and the sidewalk covering the street west of Held's saloon. The city engineer and street committee were instructed at Monday night's meeting of the board to prepare plans for the proposed change.

A Happy Wedding.

Wednesday at high noon Miss Elvah Ewing, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. Ewing, was joined in wedlock to T. A. Ronsheimer, a popular business man of Sebastopol. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, and was witnessed by a number of friends and relatives of the young couple. After the ceremony a sumptuons wedding breakfast was enjoyed.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ronshiemer will make their home at Sebastopol, where both are wellknown social favorites. The PRESS joins their many friends in extending cangratulations.

How Health Is Gained.

The story of a great deal of the unhappiness of women is a story of lost health. Women wonder how it is that little by little the form loses plumpness, the cheeks grow hollow and sallow, and they feel tired and worn-out all the time. In a large proportion of cases when women are weak, run-down and falling off in flesh and looks, the root of the trouble can be traced to womanly diseases which undermine the general health. The proof of this is that women who have been cured of painful womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have recovered their general health, gained in flesh and in appearance.

$500 Reward for Women Who Cannot be Cured.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I suffered for three years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. Ann Quinn (Treasurer Woman's Athletic Club), of 602 Sycamore St., Milwaukee, Wis. "The treatment I took did not do me a particle of good, until a good neighbor who had been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advised me to give it a trial. The next day took my first dose, and it was my first step toward recovery. In nine weeks I was a different woman; my flesh which had been flabby became firm, complexion clear and my eyes bright. It was simply an indication of the great change within from pain and suffering to health and happiness."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

ALICE OF OLD VINCENNES

CHAPTER XXII.

AND SO IT ENDED.

A FEW days after the surrender of Hamilton a large boat, the Willing, arrived from Kaskaskia. It was well manned and heavily armed. Clark fitted it out before beginning his march and expected it to be of great assistance to him in the reduction of the fort, but the high waters and the floating driftwood delayed its progress, so that its disappointed crew saw Alice's flag floating bright and high when their eyes first looked upon the dull little town from far down the swollen river. There was much rejoicing, however, when they came ashore and were enthusiastically greeted by the garrison and populace. A courier whom they picked up on the Ohio came with them. He bore dispatches from Governor Henry of Virginia to Clark and a letter for Beverley from his father.

The letter to Beverley from his father was somewhat disturbing. It bore the tidings of his mother's failing health. This made it easier for the young lieutenant to accept from Clark the assignment to duty with a party detailed for the purpose of escorting Hamilton, Farnsworth and several other British officers to Williamsburg, Va. It also gave him a most powerful assistance in persuading Alice to marry him at once, so as to go with him on what proved to be a delightful wedding journey through the great wilderness to the Old Dominion. Spring's verdure burst abroad on the sunny hills as they slowly went their way. The mating birds sang in every blooming brake and grove by which they passed, and in their joyous hearts they heard the bubbling of love's eternal fountain.

Our story must end here, because at this point its current flows away forever from old Vincennes, and it was only of the post on the Wabash that we set out to make a record. What befell Alice and Beverley after they went to Virginia we could go on to tell, but that would be another story. Suffice it to say, they lived happily ever after, or at least somewhat beyond threescore and ten, and left behind them a good name and numerous descendants.

How Alice found out her family in Virginia we are not informed, but after a lapse of some years from the date of her marriage there appears in one of her letters a reference to an estate inherited from her Tarleton ancestors, and her name appears in old records signed in full, Alice Tarleton Beverley. A descendant of hers still treasures the locket, with its broken miniature and battered crest, which won Beverley's life from Long Hair, the savage. Beside it, as carefully guarded, is the Indian charm stone that stopped Hamilton's bullet over Alice's heart. The rapiers have somehow disappeared, and there is a tradition in the Tarleton family that they were given by Alice to Gaspard Roussillon, who after Mme. Roussillon's death in 1790 went to New Orleans, where he stayed a year or two before embarking for France, whither he took with him the beautiful pair of colechemardes and Jean, the bunchback.

Oncle Jazon lived in Vincennes many years after the war was over, but he died at Natchez, Miss., when ninety-three years old. He said with almost his last breath that he couldn't shoot very well even in his best days, but that he had upon various occasions "jes' kind o' happened to hit a Injun in the lef' eye." They used to tell a story as late as General Harrison's stay in Vincennes about how Oncle Jazon buried his collection of scalps with great funeral solemnity as his part of the celebration of peace and independence about the year 1784.

Good old Father Beret died suddenly soon after Alice's marriage and departure for Virginia. He was found lying face downward on the floor of his cabin. Near him on a smooth part of a puncheon were the mildewed fragments of a letter which he had been arranging as if to read its contents. Doubtless it was the same letter brought to him by Rene de Ronville, as recorded in an early chapter of our story. The fragments were gathered up and buried with him. His dust lies under the present Church of St. Xavier, the dust of as noble a man and as true a priest as ever sacrificed himself for the good of humanity.

In after years Simon Kenton visited Beverley and Alice in their Virginia home. To his dying day he was fond of describing their happy and hospitable welcome and the luxuries to which they introduced him. They lived in a stately white mansion on a hill overlooking a vast tobacco plantation where hundreds of negro slaves worked and sang by day and frolicked by night. Their oldest child was named Fitzhugh Gaspard. Kenton died in 1836.

There remains but one little fact worth recording before we close the book. In the year 1800, on the Fourth of July, a certain leading French family of Vincennes held a patriotic reunion during which a little old flag was produced and its story told. Some one happily proposed that it be sent to Mrs. Alice Tarleton Beverley with a letter of explanation and in profound recognition of the glorious circumstances which made it the true flag of the great northwest.

And so it happened that Alice's little banner went to Virginia and is still preserved in an old mansion not very far from Monticello, but it seems likely that the Wabash valley will soon again possess the precious relic. The marriage engagement of Miss Alice Beverley to a young Indiana officer, distinguished for his patriotism and military ardor, has been announced at the old Beverley homestead on the hill, and the high contracting parties have planned that the wedding ceremony shall take place under the famous little flag on the anniversary of Clark's capture of Post Vincennes. When the bride shall be brought to her new home on the banks of the Wabash the flag will come with her, but Oncle Jazon will not be on hand with his falsetto shout, "Vive la banniere d'Alice Roussillon! Vive Zhorzh Vasinton!"

THE END.

Perils of the Lumbermen.

A crew of seven men were loosening timbers from the rocks above a great cataract on the River Des Quinze. The nearer they worked to the head of the rapids the more imminent grew their peril. At last the cautious steersman, a half breed named Poison, refused to venture further the lives of his crew. The foolhardy foreman ordered him out, stepped aboard and took Poison's steering paddle. Out from the bank they shot swiftly and down the steep incline. All went well until they wished to turn their boat beside the rocks that blocked the timber when to their consternation the speed of the boat slackened. Managing to point her bow up stream, they rowed with all their strength. For some seconds she never moved. Surely the demon of the rapids had caught them. With pounding heart and panting breath they tugged with all their might and main, but to no purpose. Inch by inch, with increasing rage, he drew them until at last with a deafening roar he hurled them, boat and all, like a javelin, into the very depths of the gigantic caldron of boiling foam.—Arthur Heming in Scribner's.

Fateful Order to Halt.

In less than half an hour my troops would have swept up and over those hills, the possession of which was of such momentous consequence. It is not surprising, with a full realization of the consequences of a halt, that I should have refused at first to obey the order. Not until the third or fourth order of the most peremptory character reached me did I obey. I think I should have risked the consequences of disobedience even then but for the fact that the order to halt was accompanied with the explanation that General Lee, who was several miles away, did not wish to give battle at Gettysburg. It is stated on good authority that General Lee said some time before his death that if Jackson had been there he would have won in this battle a great and possibly decisive victory. I cannot vouch for the truth of this statement, as I did not hear it; but no soldier in a great crisis ever wished more ardently for a deliverer's hand than I wished for one hour of Jackson when I was ordered to halt.—General John B. Gordon in Scribner's.

A CURIOUS OLD PLACE.

The present department of justice is a curious old place; only those familiar with it can avoid getting lost. It is composed of a number of residences which have been converted into one large office building. Of course, economy of space and light could not be practiced, and as a consequence there are long passageways, dark halls, numerous stairways and other places which are not essential in a public office. Some years ago an appropriation of $1,000,000 was made for a department of justice.

Mr. Griggs, who was then attorney general, declared a proper department could not be built for that money. Since then Attorney General Knox agreed with him, and the department remains in rented quarters. Perhaps the next session of congress may be more generous and a first class building may be erected for the department that deals with law matters.—Washington Post.

Toads as Pets.

Dr. C. F. Hodge, at the summer school of Clark university, has been making a passionate plea for toads. No fly screens are needed in a home where the gentle and lovable toads are kept, says Dr. Hodge. Mosquito netting is a delusion and an idle jest compared to the loyal services of a half dozen lively toads. Besides, they amuse the baby and are less troublesome pets than cats, white mice, parrots or monkeys. The tadpoles can be kept in an aquarium instead of the useless goldfish. Toads, he says, sing more beautifully than canaries do. Altogether the toad is an ideal household pet. Let us all keep toads except in families where the head of the house is intemperate. Even there a peck of toads introduced surreptitiously might induce the toper to sign the pledge after one night's experience with them.—Boston Advertiser.

Congressional Punsters.

"What has the capitol got that you will never have?" asked Congressman Fletcher of Minnesota of Congressman Tawney recently.

"Give it up," said Tawney.

"Two white wings," said Fletcher.

"Pretty fair," admitted Tawney, "But what has the capitol got that you give to applicants for office?"

"It's too many for me," replied the other Minnesota man.

"A marble stair."

Big and Little Nevada.

Nevada is larger in area than any of the states except Texas, Montana and California, yet its population in 1900 was only 42,335, or less than is found in eighty-nine cities in the United States. There are more inhabitants in such towns as Akron, Saginaw, Dallas and Covington than in the state of Nevada. The highest population Nevada ever reached, 62,266, was in the silver mining days of 1880.

Long Haired Men.

Israel Zangwill says: "There are three reasons why men of genius have long hair. One is that they forget it is growing. The second is that they like it. The third is that it comes cheaper. They wear it long for the same reason that they wear their hats long. Owing to this peculiarity of genius you may get quite a reputation for lack of 25 cents."

How Rocks Grow.

Rocks do not grow in the sense that a plant grows. They may increase by accretion, and they may undergo chemical change. The old sea bed, being lifted up, becomes sandstone and limestone. The volcanic ash and lava strewn over the plains become tufa, hard enough for building stone. The pebbly shore of a river becomes conglomerate. The simple mineral does grow, however, when it takes a crystal form. The sparkling prism of quartz increases from an atom to a crystal as large as a foreman by a process of addition and assimilation, wonderfully slow, but beautifully regular, exactly as crystals of ice form on the window pane.

ORIGIN OF ORATORIOS.

They Were First Introduced In the Sixteenth Century.

St. Philip de Weri, a Florentine priest, born 1515, first introduced dramatic services in his oratory. In order to draw the young or careless to church he and others who followed his lead had hymns, psalms and spiritual songs or cantatas sung either in chorus or by a single favorite voice as special attractions.

These pieces were divided into two parts. Sacred stories or events from Scripture written in verse and by way of dialogue were set to music, and the first part was performed before the sermon, which the people were induced to stay and hear that they might not miss the performance of the second part.

The subjects in early times were the "Good Samaritan" and the "Prodigal Son," which by the excellence of the composition, the band of instruments and the performance brought the music of oratory into great repute.

Afterward any such rendering of sacred musical drama obtained the general appellation of "oratorio." The first oratorio in England was performed in London in Lincoln's Inn theater in Portugal street in 1732.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

542 1-2 Congress St.,
Portland, Maine, Oct. 17, 1902.

I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Wilhelmina Snow
Treasurer, Portland Economic League

Periodical headaches tell of female weakness. Wine of Cardui cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctors have failed, that is the best reason in the world you should try Wine of Cardui now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

The time was spent in games, such as are enjoyed by little ones. Miss Florence Ebbert, with her sweet voice, sang several songs, and little Myrtle Craig carried off the prize of the donkey contest. The dining room in which the lunch was served was a beautiful bower of pink and green lighted with lanterns. The table was daintily laid and happy faces and little voices told true enjoyment. Miss Florence, who has been visiting her cousin Sydney for the last month, leaves for her home in San Francisco Saturday.

Banks Had More Bugs.

J. R. Banks, county horticultural commissioner, received another consignment of the bugs that feed on the black scale Monday and they were let loose in an infected orchard that evening.

The bugs, comys fusca, are about the size of a flea and resemble that pernicious insect both in appearance and method of locomotion. They live entirely on the black scale, and when the black scale disappears from an orchard these bugs also disappear, presumably dying for want of sustenance. Each vial of the bugs, as prepared for mailing, contains one family or colony of the insects, numbering from 600 to 1000 of the lively little fellows. The packages received by Mr. Banks Monday had 900 of them. Enough black scale is placed in the vial to last the colony at least six weeks, the time usually required for transportation from where they are propogated.

Mr. O'Connor has surveyed a railroad up to the rear of the company's store, it being the intention to build a large warehouse there.—Advocate.

LACK FUNDS TO PAY THE BILLS

The Fourth of July committee is short of funds and about $115 of the bills remain unpaid. The shortage was caused by one or two unforseen expenditures the committee was called upon to make, all of which was perfectly legitimate. One was for the horse that was injured in the bronco busting event. The animal was possibly ruined, and the committee paid its owner for it. It is possible that something may be realized from the sale of the horse in the future, in case he recovers sufficiently to be saleable, but it will be months before this can de done.

Meanwhile, a condition, not a theory confronts the committee—as Grover would say. Creditors would like to receive their money, and while some of them may afford and be willing to lose a portion of the indebtedness, all cannot afford to do so. To make good this deficiency there appears to be but two courses open. One is for the committee to make it up themselves. The other is for the business men, who profited to a more or less extent by the celebration in a business way, to subscribe a sufficient amount to enable the committee to liquidate the debts incurred by the celebration. It is safe to say that this latter course is the only one to be pursued. No patriotic or fairminded man will decline to bear his portion, we believe. The business men of Ukiah are not lacking in these essential traits, and the funds will undoubtedly be forthcoming as soon as they are acquainted with the condition.

Excursions to the East.

Those contemplating an eastern trip will be interested to know that the Rio Grande system is operating via the scenic line of the world daily excursion cars through from the Pacific coast without change to Denver, Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston and intermediate points. These are the Pullman ordinary or tourist sleepers, provided with comfortable berths, bedding and linen of the Pullman standard. They have separate lavatories, are well lighted and heated, and in act only differ from the more expensive standard cars in the character of the upholstery and inside finishing. Besides the colored porter, an excursion manager accompanies the cars for the sole purpose of looking after the welfare and comfort of his party. There is no charge beyond the regular railroad and sleeping car rates to those who accompany these excursions. If you are interested, let us quote you the lowest rates and give you more details, and also furnish you with illustrated books descriptive of the grandest mountain scenery on the American continent. TWO VESSELS SUNK BY MINES

Russian Forces Near Mo Tien Pass Defeated After Twelve Hours' Severe Fighting.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—A Russsian torpedo boat and a German vessel have struck mines at Vladivostok and sunk. Their crews perished.

Malta, July 19.—The British fleet unuder Admiral Domville has sailed for Alexandria, Egypt. It is reported that the purpose is to police the Mediterranean and Red seas and convoy British merchantmen to prevent them from being interfered with by the Russians.

St. Petersburg, July 19.—The Russian and Japanese forces which are lined up expecting a clash, grappled in the serious fight Sunday morning, according to a report from General Kuropatkin received here last night. The report indicated that the Japanese misinterpreted the movement and that, instead of it being an attempt to take Mo Tien pass, it was a reconnaissance on a large scale.

General Count Keller's account of the fighting does not especially state the number of men engaged, though it shows that the Russian main advance consisted of eighteen battalions with considerable reserve, three battalions of the latter being called up during the course of the battle while still others were not utilized.

An important fact developed by the reconnaissance was the exact location of a powerful Japanese force secreted in the region between Fenshui and Mo Tien passes. Its strength was indicated by the fact that twenty-one battalions were insufficient to permanently force the Japanese positions, though some of them were occupied temporarily. On the other hand, it would appear that the Japanese were either disinclined or unable to follow up Lieutenant-General Keller when he retired to his former position at Ikhavuan.

The seriousness of the day's fighting is shown in General Keller's estimate that the Rusian casualties were over a thousand.

The battle leaves the general situation unchanged, but shows that a powerful Japanese army is massed and is constantly threatening Liao Yang, apparently only awaiting General Kuroki's signal to advance.

London, July 19.—The Morning Post's correspondent at General Kuroki's headquarters, telegraphing under date of July 17th, says:

"A Russian force, apparently about 20,000 strong, attacked the front, left and right of the Japanese positions on the western slope of Mo Tien pass at 2 a. m. today under cover of a dense fog. The suddden onslaught drove in the Japanese outposts, but as soon as reinforcements arrived the Japanese gallantly advanced to the attack and after severe fighting drove off the Russians and reoccupied the position. The Russians retired, their retreat being well covered. The fighting lasted until 3 o'clock in the afternoon and when I left the scene desultory fighting was still proceeding."

The correspondent of the Times at General Kuroki's headquarters says that the Japanese loss during the fighting at Mo Tien pass on July 17th was trifling.

NOTED MURDERER LOCATED.

Kid Goucher Turns Up at the Stillwater, Minn., Penitentiary.

San Francisco, July 19.—Allen Goucher, alias "Kid" Goucher, alias the "Fresno, California, Kid," for whom the police have been looking since January 21, 1902, for complicity in the murder of Policeman Eugene C. Robinson, has at last been located in the Stillwater, Minn., penitentiary. Chief of Police Wittman received information early in June which caused him to write to the Minnesota authorities, and, after an exchange of photographs it was decided that beyond question Goucher was sent to Stillwater from Jackson county, Minnesota, for grand larceny. He was convicted under the name of Roy Williams.

MIDSUMMER CARNIVAL OPENS.

Sacramento, July 19.—The Native Sons' midsummer carnival opened here yesterday. Queen Aileen Newton was escorted by a troop of cavalry and her maids of honor to her throne, where the mayor delivered to her the keys of the city. The carnival is held on the Tenth street plaza and surrounding streets with a host of shows and amusement booths. The week will be filled by a ribbon parade, and forty-niner parade, a parade of Native Sons and Daughters, receptions, a tennis tournament and the like. Everything points to a week of fun and wholesome amusement. The purpose is to raise money to add to the fund for the state celebration of Admission day next year.

Oroville, July 19.—Word has been received here by telephone from the Bellaview mine that the four men caught in the burning mine Sunday were rescued shortly before midnight last night.

CONDENSED STORIES.

An Old Timer's Anecdote of Governor Hastings and Senator Quay.

A very strenuous administration was that of the late Governor Daniel H. Hastings even in this state of lively politics. Perhaps no episode was warmer than one that closely followed the former executive's second break with Quay.

It will be remembered the governor was grievously disappointed because the Beaver senator's choice of a colleague to succeed Don Cameron was Boies Penrose. Hastings was still smarting with resentment when the two senators called at the executive mansion to urge him to sign the Becker bill, the object of which was to curtail the authority of the mayor of Philadelphia. The executive veto had already been written, but of this fact the callers were ignorant.

Very emphatically the governor declared that he would never sign such a measure. The presence of the junior senator, whom he cordially disliked, did not tend to mollify him.

In vain Quay coaxed. He called attention to the fact that the executive was in line of promotion and comparatively young; that he (the senator) was growing old and wished to withdraw to private life as soon as his term expired. In short, he adroitly left the inference, without making an overt promise, that Mr. Hastings should succeed him in the United States senate.

The governor pricked up his ears.

"You sold me a gold brick once," he retorted angrily. "I am not in the market for any more. I shall not sign this bill, no matter what you promise."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Surgery and Morality.

Much interest has lately been aroused in London by two surgical operations which have resulted in a marked change of character in the patients. One was that of a boy of good family who had developed strangely brutal instincts. A clever surgeon examined him with care, located what he considered the seat of the trouble, removed a piece of the skull and thus relieved the deforming pressure. The lad was restored to his parents a normal and lovable child. The other case was that of a soldier who after an injury in a skirmish developed a propensity for theft. An operation on the brain cured him.
